

THE WORKSHOP

This 2-day training workshop recognizes that there are many performance management failures, even in otherwise well-organized companies. One primary reason is because those performance management routines are neither working for you nor the company. In this workshop we share our research with you and provide you with a simple methodology to complement the routines that you are already using in your organization. Using Microsoft Excel as the ubiquitous tool, this will help re-create practical and effective performance management that will work for your organization. The methodology also helps interlink measures together, guaranteeing company-wide alignment to support the top Chief's ambitions or concerns.
